You will be amazed to discover how similar we really are. We celebrate life's special events, recognize a new season, praise a deity, honor family members, remember an important moment in history, or commemorate sad or joyous occasions in much the same way. Our holy traditions continue to bring meaning to the ways in which we express our shared humanity.

Nevertheless, there are also subtle and more obvious differences that also characterize how we express our joys and sorrows. Members of the following religions will participate, such as Hindus, Bahais, Native American Spirituals, Brahma Kumaris, Sikhs, Jews of various traditions, Muslims and others. Learn, share, we welcome your questions. Enjoy!
