2A) Staying thinking: holding onto the role of clinician when delivering music therapy as part of a Randomized Control Trial
Grace Watts, Music Therapy (UK)

TIME-A has provided a unique experience in the UK to pioneer delivery of high intensity music therapy. How do we maintain and sustain our thinking and practice when offering a high volume of this type of music therapy? How does working in this way influence our ongoing clinical practice?

Grace Watts is a music therapist working at the Cheyne Child Development Service, Chelsea and Westminster Hospital NHS Foundation Trust in London, UK. She is also the PR officer for the British Association for Music Therapy.
