

Russell K. Portenoy, MD is Executive Director of the MJHS Institute for Innovation in Palliative Care, Chief Medical Officer of MJHS Hospice and Palliative Care, and Professor of Neurology and Family and Social Medicine at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. Prior to assuming his current positions, he was the founding Chairman of Beth Israel Medical Center's Department of Pain Medicine and Palliative Care—the first department of its kind in the country. Dr. Portenoy is a past-president of both the American Pain Society and the American Academy of Hospice and Palliative Medicine. He chaired the American Board of Hospice and Palliative Medicine when subspecialty status for Hospice and Palliative Medicine was finally approved in 2006. In 1986, Dr. Portenoy became the founding Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Pain and Symptom Management and he continued to serve in this capacity until 2019. Dr. Portenoy was elected one of 30 “Visionaries” in palliative care by the membership of the American Academy of Hospice and Palliative Medicine and he received the Academy's 2012 Lifetime Achievement Award and 2020 Gerald H. Holman Distinguished Service Award. He is also the recipient of the 2016 Ventafridda Prize for Research from the European Association for Palliative Care, the 2015 Galen Miller Leadership Award of the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization, and the 1998 Wilbert Fordyce Award for Lifetime Excellence in Clinical Investigation of the American Pain Society. Dr. Portenoy co-edits the Oxford Textbook of Palliative Medicine and has published 23 books and numerous papers and chapters on topics in palliative care, pain and symptom management, and opioid pharmacotherapy.
