The Common Core Curriculum focuses on using Writer’s Workshop to produce different types of writing for a specific audience. This institute will show how to launch your Writer’s Workshop and set up a classroom that allows students to live a “writerly” life. Participants will create lessons for personal narratives, nonfiction, argumentative writing, and poetry units. By using mentor texts, students are able to gain depth at writers in action. Instructor: Jessica Ryan is a teacher in the Lynbrook School District, was Nassau County’s Math Teacher of the Year in 2012 and is an adjunct Molloy College faculty member.
