Now Accepting Speaker Proposals!

Do you have a powerful story, research project, or personal journey that reflects the heart of Molloy University's mission and values? We invite students, faculty, staff, and administrators to apply to be a featured speaker at Molloy Speaks—a monthly lunchtime event that uplifts voices across our campus community.

WHAT IS MOLLOY SPEAKS?

A dynamic monthly forum sponsored by the Siena Center for Social Justice where members of the Molloy community share experiences, insights, and work aligned with one of our institutional pillars or values and guiding virtues. Come to be inspired—and inspire others.

HOW TO APPLY:

Submit a short proposal identifying your topic and the Molloy pillar it connects to.

Apply once to be considered for the entire academic year by submitting your proposal here!

WHY APPLY?

- Engage the campus community
- Be part of a growing tradition
- Receive a custom recognition gift
- Build your public speaking skills

MARK YOUR CALENDAR:

Molloy Speaks takes place the first Wednesday of each month—let's make it a tradition!

TIME: 12–1 PM (Lunchtime!)

Food served. Recorded and archived for future sharing.

Let your story speak volumes. Molloy is listening.
